

The affect→refusal gate is model-dependent and survives massive-activation removal

Only Gemma-3-12B shows the gate (refusal 0.99→0.04 under affect-orthogonal ablation) and it persists (→0.02) after zeroing outlier/massive-activation dims — the gate is not a massive-activation artifact. Other strong refusers keep refusal high.